

You have just seen this posting on an online forum.

Everyone brags about how many friends they have on Facebook. But they don't realize that these are not real friends.

*How many people can you really stay in touch with? – 10? – 100? – 500?
Some people say they have 1,000 friends! – They can't be serious ...*

You have decided to write a comment of about 150 words. Include the following points:

- the differences between "real friends" and friends on Facebook
- the number of people you would consider as friends

Room for corrections

