You have just seen this posting on an online forum.

Everyone brags about how many friends they have on Facebook. But they don't realize that these are not real friends.

How many people can you really stay in touch with? – 10? – 100? – 500? Some people say they have 1,000 friends! – They can't be serious ...

You have decided to write a comment of about 150 words. Include the following points:

- the differences between "real friends" and friends on Facebook
- the number of people you would consider as friends
